1 November 2021

Non New Zealand citizens travelling to New Zealand from this date will need to be fully vaccinated

21 December 2021

Eligible travellers travelling to New Zealand will need to provide a negative Covid-19 test that is obtained from the local health authority 48 hours before the first international flight (the previous requirement was 72 hours). Eligible travellers will need to isolate in MIQ for 10 days upon arrival in New Zealand

February 2022

At the end of February, Kiwis and fully vaccinated eligible travellers can travel to NZ from Australia using a self-isolation system. We anticipate that the entry date to allow for self-isolation to be used by eligible travellers travelling from other countries will also be delayed until at least the end of February 2022.
